LAST ROUND-UP OF THE GUACAMOLE
QUEENS

ACT ONE

Scene 1

Morning, lights up downstage center on the set of Hospitality House, a low-budget cable access program in Sweetgum, Texas. Two chairs are arranged for conversation and Cee Cee Windham, sassy and stylish, addresses the "camera" from the stage right chair.

CEE CEE. Happy Friday, everybody! I'm Cee Cee Windham and welcome to Hospitality House, the number-one cable access show in the tri-county area, coming to you live from Sweetgum, Texas! Now, if you missed yesterday's program, you missed a good one. Sister Dixie Davenport hosted our new segment, Inspiration Station, with the timely topic: "Hot Flashes — God's Way of Giving You a Little Taste of Hell." Powerful stuff. Moving right along, here's a quick announcement — Clovis Sanford's House of Meat finally reopened over in Fayro. And if that's not exciting enough, today Clovis will be signing copies of his self-published memoir, High On The Hog, back by the sausage grinder. Don't miss this once-in-a-lifetime literary event! And now, let's get right to the topic everyone's talking about — that dear old Sweetgum High is going to be torn down. Now, we want everyone to show up for the final reunion of all the classes one week from tonight.

Go, Buccaneers! And until then we'll feature several of our most famous graduates here on this show. Today's celebrity alum is the founder of the go-to source for wedding gowns for Texas-size gals, Wide Bride! Let's welcome Jimmie Wyvette Verdeen! (Jimmie Wyvette Verdeen, a hearty good ol' girl with an unfortunate unibrow, enters from stage right wearing men's Western wear, strides to the stage left chair, waves, and sits.) So good to have you with us on today's show, Jimmie Wy. Now rumor has it you and your cousins are in charge of this big reunion and are whippin' up a real humdinger!

JIMMIE WYVETTE. Well, I don't usually cotton to rumors but this is one you can take to the bank! Peaches, Gaynelle, and myself are popping our shirttails getting ready for one fabulous, final blowout in the old gym. And I've got a trivia tidbit for all your viewers: Do all y'all remember that the school was built on the site of an old avocado grove? That's why the homecoming game was called the Guacamole Bowl.

CEE CEE. Ah, precious memories, how they linger. Now, everybody in McTwayne County's super excited about the reunion. And we thought members of our viewing audience might have some questions for you. We have our first caller so ... (Louder.) Who are we speaking with and is this question for me or our guest?

MAN. (Voiceover.) It's for any woman. I'm Lloyd Jarvis, my wife's gone, and I gotta wash my shirt. What settin' do I use on the washin' machine?

CEE CEE. (Sighs.) Well, it depends. What does it say on your shirt, Lloyd?

MAN. (Voiceover.) Uh ... Texas A and M. (Cee Cee hangs her head.)

JIMMIE WYVETTE. Hey, Lloyd, when zombies attack, lookin' for brains, don't worry, you'll be safe! (Guffaws. Off Cee Cee's glare.) What? I didn't say he's stupid. I figured he already knew.

CEE CEE. (Quickly, to the "camera.") The views expressed by our guests are not necessarily those of this station. (Then.) I think now would be a super time to hear from our new sponsor, The Gravy Bucket, offering all-you-can-eat biscuits and syrup on Saturdays. And with the purchase of any cake, pie, or dozen donuts, you'll get a free diabetes home test kit at the check-out. Now, we'll be right back, live from Sweetgum, Texas! (Blackout.)
